Find a course in Clearing (from July 5)

If an applicant has no offers and is not waiting for any decisions, or has declined any offers they received, they will see this card.

From here they can search for courses in Clearing.

An applicant must discuss their choice with the university or college first, and only add a Clearing choice if the university or college has advised them to.

Making an application direct to Clearing

If an applicant has not started an application at all, they will see a start card. All sections, including a personal statement and reference, should be completed.

They will need to submit their application without any choices and then add their Clearing choice.

If an applicant has partially completed an application and added choices before Clearing begins (and submits their application after 30 June) their choices will be removed from the application on submission.

During the examination results embargo <sup>UCAS</sup>

If an application has been submitted, during the results embargo periods, the applicant will be taken to a read-only version of their application.

Just before results day applications will be unavailable whilst our systems prepare for results day.

Application status

Applicants may be offered an unconditional place with substantial changes to the original choice. This could mean a change to the course, start date or point of entry.

It is usually offered if an applicant didn't meet the conditions but the university or college wants to offer an alternative place.

Applicants can check the details in the application. If they have any questions or concerns about the change, they need to speak to the uni or college to find out why they've made this change.
