

Health and Social Department

2023-2024

| | YEAR 7 | YEAR 8 | YEAR 9 | YEAR 10 | YEAR 11 | YEAR 12 | YEAR 13 |
|-------------------|-----------|-----------|-----------|--|--|---|---|
| TERM 1 | N/A | N/A | N/A | CNAT H and S Unit R035: Healthy promotion campaigns Introduce you to the importance of a healthy society and some of the public health challenged that we face as a society. Furthermore, looking at the importance of a healthy society and current health promotion campaigns with factors which can influence health and wellbeing. You will also look at the barriers to leading a healthy active lifestyle and how the planning of these campaigns take place. | CNAT H and S Unit R032: Principles of care in health and social care settings Introduce you to the types of care settings and the rights of service users including choice, confidentiality, consultation, protection from harm and abuse and equal and fair treatment. Furthermore, you will also look at the benefits to service users when rights are maintained and the person-centred values and how they are applied to service providers. Furthermore, you will be introduced to the effects service users' health and wellbeing can be impacted | CTEC H and S Unit 1: Positive Relationships Introduce you to the many different relationships that you will encounter within the health and social care sector; whether with colleagues, senior members of staff, other professionals within the sector or individuals who require care and support. Unit 3: Health, Safety and Security Introduces you to health, safety and security in health and social care. You will acquire the necessary | CTEC H and S Unit 4: Anatomy and Physiology Introduce you to the basic structure and functions of the body systems involved in everyday activities and maintenance of health, including cardiovascular, respiratory and digestive systems. |

| | | | | | | | |
|---------------------------------|--|--|--|---|---|---|--|
| | | | | | if the person centred approach is not applied. You will also understand the types of communication and how these can be applied in health and social care settings and safeguarding. Furthermore, you will look at infection control, safety measures, procedures and security measures. | knowledge and skills to equip you in maintaining a safe working environment for yourself, your colleagues and individuals who require care and support. | |
| TERM 2 | | | | CNAT H and S Unit R035: Healthy promotion campaigns Introduce you to the importance of a healthy society and some of the public health challenged that we face as a society. Furthermore, looking at the importance of a healthy society and current health promotion campaigns with factors which can influence health and wellbeing. You will also look at the barriers to leading a healthy active lifestyle and how the planning of these | CNAT H and S Unit R032: Principles of care in health and social care settings Introduce you to the types of care settings and the rights of service users including choice, confidentiality, consultation, protection from harm and abuse and equal and fair treatment. Furthermore, you will also look at the benefits to service users when rights are maintained and the person-centred values and how they are applied to service providers. Furthermore, you will be introduced to the effects service users' health and | CTEC H and S Unit 1: Positive Relationships Introduce you to the many different relationships that you will encounter within the health and social care sector; whether with colleagues, senior members of staff, other professionals within the sector or individuals who require care and support. Unit 3: Health, Safety and Security Introduces you to health, safety and security in health and social care. You | CTEC H and S Unit 4: Anatomy and Physiology Introduce you to the basic structure and functions of the body systems involved in everyday activities and maintenance of health, including cardiovascular, respiratory and digestive systems. |

| | | | | | | | |
|---------------------------------|--|--|--|---|---|---|--|
| | | | | campaigns take place. | wellbeing can be impacted if the person centred approach is not applied. You will also understand the types of communication and how these can be applied in health and social care settings and safeguarding. Furthermore, you will look at infection control, safety measures, procedures and security measures. | will acquire the necessary knowledge and skills to equip you in maintaining a safe working environment for yourself, your colleagues and individuals who require care and support. | |
| TERM 3 | | | | CNAT H and S Unit R033: Supporting individuals through life events Introduce you to the different life stages and key milestones of growth and development of a particular life stage. You will also learn about the factors which can affect growth and development including physical, social and economic. Furthermore, you will learn about expected and unexpected life events which can impact on an individual and the support offered to them and the people who offer this | CNAT H and S Unit R032: Principles of care in health and social care settings Introduce you to the types of care settings and the rights of service users including choice, confidentiality, consultation, protection from harm and abuse and equal and fair treatment. Furthermore, you will also look at the benefits to service users when rights are maintained and the person-centred values and how they are applied to service providers. Furthermore, you will be introduced to the effects | CTEC H and S Unit 10: Nutrition for health Introduces nutritional health and the components of good nutrition. You will have the opportunity to scrutinise different foods, consider their health benefits and investigate how to support other people to impact their health and well-being. Unit 2: Equality, diversity and rights Understand the | CTEC H and S Unit 9: Learning difficulties Understand the term 'learning disability', and will look at a range of different types and possible causes. You will examine how the lives of individuals with a learning disability are changing as attitudes and approaches to support evolve |

| | | | | | | | |
|---------------------------------|--|--|--|---|---|--|--|
| | | | | support. You will also be introduced to the roles of informal care and the research around personalised support for individuals. | service users' health and wellbeing can be impacted if the person centred approach is not applied. You will also understand the types of communication and how these can be applied in health and social care settings and safeguarding. Furthermore, you will look at infection control, safety measures, procedures and security measures. | implications of diversity on practice and also the effects of discriminatory practice on individuals who require care or support | |
| TERM 4 | | | | CNAT H and S Unit R033: Supporting individuals through life events Introduce you to the different life stages and key milestones of growth and development of a particular life stage. You will also learn about the factors which can affect growth and development including physical, social and economic. Furthermore, you will learn about expected and unexpected life events which can impact on an individual and the support offered to them and the | N/A | CTEC H and S Unit 10: Nutrition for health Introduces nutritional health and the components of good nutrition. You will have the opportunity to scrutinise different foods, consider their health benefits and investigate how to support other people to impact their health and well-being. Unit 2: Equality, diversity and rights | CTEC H and S Unit 9: Learning difficulties Understand the term 'learning disability', and will look at a range of different types and possible causes. You will examine how the lives of individuals with a learning disability are changing as attitudes and approaches to support evolve |

| | | | | | | | |
|-------------------|--|--|--|--|------------|--|------------|
| | | | | people who offer this support. You will also be introduced to the roles of informal care and the research around personalised support for individuals. | | Understand the implications of diversity on practice and also the effects of discriminatory practice on individuals who require care or support | |
| TERM 5 | | | | CNAT H and S Unit R032: Principles of care in health and social care settings Introduce you to the types of care settings and the rights of service users including choice, confidentiality, consultation, protection from harm and abuse and equal and fair treatment. Furthermore, you will also look at the benefits to service users when rights are maintained and the person-centred values and how they are applied to service providers. Furthermore, you will be introduced to the effects service users' health and wellbeing can be impacted if the person centred approach is not applied. You will also understand the types of | N/A | CTEC H and S Unit 4: Anatomy and Physiology Introduce you to the basic structure and functions of the body systems involved in everyday activities and maintenance of health, including cardiovascular, respiratory and digestive systems. | N/A |

Brooke Weston Faculty Curriculum Summary

| | | | | | | | |
|--|--|--|--|---|--|--|--|
| | | | | communication and how these can be applied in health and social care settings and safeguarding. Furthermore, you will look at infection control, safety measures, procedures and security measures. | | | |
|--|--|--|--|---|--|--|--|